

How does McDonald's really feel about America's workers?

McDonald's CEO:	$6,250/hour
McDonald's worker:	$8.11/hour

Our economy is broken because CEO's are paid 344 times higher than the average worker, and McDonald's CEO is paid 770 times what his workers earn, leaving working families with barely enough to afford the "Dollar Menu."

Congress is considering the Employee Free Choice Act—bipartisan federal legislation that would give America's workers the opportunity to earn better pay and benefits and to improve working conditions. But McDonald's and other corporations are spending big money to oppose it.

It's time for McDonald's to give workers more of the wealth they help create.
